TTC mulls random drug testing

Policy review comes after fatal bus crash

A fatal bus accident on Aug. 30 has reopened the issue of random or mandatory drug-and-alcohol testing for TTC workers.

Transit officials confirmed Wednesday that a review of the system's fitness-for-duty policy will be on the agenda at next week's Toronto Transit Commission meeting.

That review comes in the wake of a bus collision on Lawrence Avenue East that killed one woman and injured 13 other riders.

Bus driver William Ainsworth has been charged with criminal negligence causing death and possession of cannabis.

TTC chief general manager Gary Webster refused to comment on the recommendations that are expected to become public on Monday.

But transit executives have long considered random drug testing a requirement of any comprehensive fitness-for-duty policy, said Coun. Karen Stintz, who chairs the TTC board.

"They've been consistent in that position," she said.

Asked if she supports random testing, Stintz said, "I think as a commission we do need to look at whether or not our policy can be improved, and if that's a recommendation by management ... we need to consider that."

The TTC has been screening for drug use in new hires since 2010. It also tests employees suspected of using drugs and alcohol at work.

Rights violation?

▶ When its current fitness-for-duty policy was introduced in 2008, the TTC stopped short of launching random screening of transit workers, a practice that's widespread in the United States but not common in Canada, where some consider it a violation of human rights.

Toronto poised to ban shark fin

CARLOS OSORIO/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Cesar Palacio says Mayor Rob Ford supports banning the sale and consumption of shark fin.

Toronto city council will almost certainly ban the sale and consumption of shark fin at its meeting on Oct. 24.

The city's licensing committee unanimously endorsed a ban on Thursday, and its chair, Coun. Cesar Palacio, said Mayor Rob Ford supported the decision.

"At city council, it's probably going to be a rubber-stamping. Hopefully we have, also, a unanimous vote," said Palacio.

The proposed bylaw would impose steep fines on anyone caught selling, consuming or possessing shark fin: $5,000 for a first offence, $25,000 for a second, $100,000 for a third or subsequent offence.

Restaurant inspectors would check for shark fin during the regular course of their work.

Shark fin soup is a traditional Chinese delicacy often served at weddings.

Proponents of a ban argue that finning, which is the practice of severing fins from live sharks and tossing them back in the ocean to die, is inhumane.

Your two cents on transit

The TTC has room for eight riders on its new customer advisory panel

Think you've got a better way to run Toronto's transit? The TTC is inviting the public to apply for eight seats on a new customer liaison panel that will begin meeting in January.

Riders are also invited to bring their questions, suggestions and complaints to a series of town hall meetings the TTC plans to hold quarterly, starting Nov. 24 at city hall.

With service and staff cuts looming in January, the TTC signaled Thursday that it hasn't given up on improving its relationship with riders, even if that means climbing outside transit officials' comfort zone.

"There's something dangerous about meeting with customers en masse because you never know what they're going to say," said the TTC's new chief customer service officer, Chris Upfold.

"Fundamentally what we're talking about is a culture change," said TTC chair Karen Stintz.

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

'A contradiction'

- Noting that frontline TTC workers have not been invited to sit on the panel, the president of the transit workers' union dismissed it as a political smokescreen.
- "It's a bit of a contradiction. On one end you reduce service and all of a sudden we're going to reach out to the customers," said Bob Kinnear, president of the Amalgamated Transit Union Local 113.

Second polar bear cub dies at zoo

Toronto Zoo keeping a close watch on third cub after 'inexperienced' mother refused to care for offspring

When the keepers came out for their daily chat at the Toronto Zoo's polar-bear enclosure on Thursday, people wanted to know about the cubs.

Late Tuesday night, 10-year-old polar bear Aurora gave birth to three cubs and rejected them. One didn't survive, and on Thursday, the zoo announced a second had died. The third cub, a male, is being monitored in an intensive-care unit.

"She's just inexperienced," a keeper said of the mother bear. "That happens with a lot of animals. She doesn't know what to do. She's never taken care of babies."

In a release, the zoo said "young animal mothers do not always nurture offspring, resulting in rejection and death."

Polar perils

- Aurora came to the zoo in 2001 after she and her sister Nikita were found in the wilderness. It's speculated their mother was killed by a hunter.
- Robert Buchanan of Polar Bear International praised the actions of the zookeepers. "How quickly they acted to spare them and save the others is amazing. You just can't run in there and grab the litter. They are very dangerous animals."

A source at the zoo said Aurora tried to eat her cubs and had done so with a litter last year.

Several animal lovers at the zoo heard that Aurora had a history of eating her offspring.

Leslie Milne, who was volunteering with a school group, said that after the first death she had asked a staff member what happened to the cubs.

"He said that one is in critical condition, the other will probably make it … and that last year the same bear ate all three. He said it was looking up this year, with only one death," she said, hours before the second cub died.

Godson admits murder

Man says philanthropist was 'squandering the family money'
Was struggling to repay $2 million he owed to godfather's company

The godson of a Toronto philanthropist gunned down four years ago has admitted masterminding the murder of multimillionaire Glen Davis.

Davis, 66, was shot and killed in an underground parking lot in May 2007 following a meeting with the World Wildlife Fund, one of many environmental causes he supported financially.

Marshall Ross's surprise guilty plea came Wednesday, just days before jury selection was set to begin in his first-degree murder trial. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Brampton man faces charges in baby's death

Murder charge

- Daniel Streeter faces a charge of second-degree murder.
- He will appear in a Brampton court for a bail hearing.

A 20-year-old Brampton man has been charged with second-degree murder in the death of his three-month-old son more than a year ago.

On Sept. 22, 2010, police and paramedics went to a home on Flowertown Avenue, near McLaughlin Road North and Queen Street West, where they found Tyson Garbutt-Streeter in distress. The baby was taken to a Brampton hospital and put on life support.

Six days later, Tyson was taken off life support and died. Peel police Const. Thomas Ruttan said it took more than a year to conclude the investigation of what homicide detectives initially deemed a suspicious pediatric death.

"Once the medical examination was completed, then the investigation takes a different turn," Ruttan said. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Mississauga GO riders want their train back

TARA WALTON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ A GO train leaves Union Station.

Commuters at the Clarkson station in Mississauga are accusing GO Transit of sacrificing their comfort, convenience and safety to riders one stop west at the Oakville station.

Nearly 700 people have signed an online petition and 57 have contacted GO directly since a Labour Day service adjustment to the 7:58 a.m. train that runs express to Union Station in 27 minutes.

The train used to originate at Clarkson so riders there were accustomed to a comfortable ride, usually in a seat. Now the train starts in Oakville and Clarkson passengers find themselves standing in the aisles and on the staircases.

Many worry that the platform at Clarkson has also become so crowded that it's tough to stand back from the yellow line when a VIA train whooshes through the station fast enough to throw someone off balance. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

It's the 'golden age' of complaining

Social media gives us the biggest soapbox ever to file complaints against businesses, expert says

PHOEBE HO
TORONTO@METRONEWS.CA

The traditional route of complaining to businesses via phone, e-mail or even letters have been replaced by a more efficient and effective medium: Social media.

Webby Awards executive director David-Michel Davies and his team comb through thousands of sites each year to find the best and most innovative sites on the Internet and, along the way, Davies also picks up on the most current trends.

"What we're seeing, is that in 2011, people are turning to places like Twitter, Facebook and other social media networks to complain about brands, products, and the service they're using," said Davies.

"A lot of brands and companies are recognizing that people are voicing their dissatisfaction in these places and so they're creating accounts or virtual help desks to try and solve these problems," he said.

And why not vent in these public forums?

Response times are quick, especially since some companies have allocated resources in staffing positions to deal with these issues specifically, and the company in question might even throw in a freebie as an apology.

"If you're somebody on Delta Airlines, you tweet that you didn't get the food you're supposed to or you didn't get the seat you had reserved or whatever it is, they actually have an account there searching for people talking about Delta and try to fix their problem," he said.

Davies says it's the 'golden age of complaining.'

"You've never had a larger soapbox to stand on top of and a more hyper-connected community to complain to," he said.

This is still a very new area for many businesses, says Davies, who are learning and struggling with whether or not to respond to the public criticisms and how to approach them.

Regardless of the legitimacy of the complaint, companies either have to deal with the repercussions of ignoring them, which could hurt their reputation, or do something about it.

"If you get somebody who has a big following on Twitter complaining about you, and it's not fair.... The person's still doing it," Davies said.

WEBBYAWARDS.COM

▶ Webby Awards executive director David-Michel Davies is scheduled to speak at the ETA Conference in Toronto on Friday.

Tweet gets free bags of pretzels

Twitter-users may become unexpected beneficiaries of "random acts of kindness" from businesses, according to Webby Awards executive director David-Michel Davies.

"Rather than just sit back and respond to people's complaints, there are companies who are trying to do positive things and create positive stories about their brands on Twitter and not just reactive reactions," he said.

This is exactly what happened at Davies' office recently.

A Webby intern tweeted to another intern that they had finished all the pretzels in the office. Thirty minutes later, a pretzel company tweeted them for their address and delivered 40 bags of pretzels to the office within the hour.

"As difficult as public complaining can be, the public praising can be just as valuable," he said. "It's the kind of advertising and marketing that's really difficult to buy."

It's a win-win situation.

B.C. drivers still distracted: Police

When it comes to driving while using an electronic device, cops in B.C. have heard every excuse in the book.

Police issued more than 3,500 tickets in a September crackdown against distracted driving, according to the Insurance Corporation of B.C. (ICBC).

Most of the drivers' excuses were justifications for behaviour people know is illegal, said Jill Blacklock, an ICBC program manager.

Half of drivers claimed they see other drivers using electronics behind the wheel regularly, but only 16 per cent admitted to using devices themselves, according to a survey conducted by Ipsos Reid for ICBC.

"Many people have learned to drive and talk on the phone or text, and they feel they're good at it," Blacklock said.

But 25 per cent of all fatal crashes in B.C. are related to distracted driving, a charge that can include texting, eating, petting a dog or applying makeup.

Spa offering gift certificates to B.C. rioters who surrender to police

JEFF HODSON
@METRONEWS.CA
METRO CANADA IN VANCOUVER

A relaxing massage, or perhaps a pedicure, might just be the perfect thing to help the angry masses relax and give up their riotous ways.

Vancouver's Eccotique Spa announced Thursday that it is offering, for a limited time, $50 'Calm Down And De-Stress' gift certificates for rioters who surrender voluntarily to police.

"Everybody involved is obviously very angry and frustrated," said Milajne Soligo, president of Eccotique Spa.

"Maybe if they visited one of our spas or had a massage they would have calmed down and it all could have been avoided."

The initiative, which Soligo said was dreamed up by Eccotique's marketing department, requires alleged rioters to show photo ID and detail what criminal activity they were involved in during the June 15 Stanley Cup riot.

They will then be fingerprinted (onto the gift card) and must return to the spa with a form proving their arrest before the gift card is activated.

"I really hope people will turn themselves in," Soligo said. "They were stupid enough to destroy the city and their home. They've got to be stupid enough to come and turn themselves in."

Tummy rumbles, or disaster ahead?

- Big Iceland volcano 'showing signs of restlessness'
- Eruption will be worse than last year's, experts say

If Iceland's air-traffic paralyzing volcanic eruption last year seemed catastrophic, just wait for the sequel.

That's what some experts are saying as they nervously watch rumblings beneath a much more powerful Icelandic volcano.

Katla could spew an ash cloud dwarfing the 2010 eruption that cost airlines $2 billion.

Brooding over rugged hills on Iceland's southern edge, Katla is a much bigger beast than the nearby Eyjafjallajökull volcano, which threw ash all over Europe for several weeks."

▶ Iceland's Katla volcano is named after an evil troll.

Katla is named after an evil troll. Its last major eruption in 1918 continued for more than a month, turning day into night, starving crops of sunlight and killing off some livestock.

Now, clusters of small quakes are being detected around Katla, which means an eruption could be imminent, seismologists say. "It is definitely showing signs of restlessness," said one at the University of Iceland.

At the aptly named Volcano Hotel in Vik, co-owner Margaret Brigisdottir is watching warily.

"It has been 100 years," she said. "The time is coming."

Right now, "we are not in any danger" — and she's counting on the lava flow heading in the opposite direction.

Carrier will put Obama in hoops heaven

U.S. President Barack Obama, a huge hoops fan, will have the seat of his choice at the Carrier Classic game on Veterans Day.

The location: The flight deck of the USS Carl Vinson, the aircraft carrier that buried Osama bin Laden at sea.

Obama will attend the Nov. 11 matchup between North Carolina and Michigan State, the first college basketball game on an active flat top.

United in protest

- On Saturday, cities around the world will join the Occupy Wall Street movement
- Here's a snapshot of what's happening in Metro cities across Canada

Occupy Vancouver
at Vancouver Art Gallery

"The movement in its core is peaceful," said organizer Min Reyes. "It's not a protest; it's more of a gathering for people to talk and try and figure out how we can change our society."

Occupy Edmonton
at Churchill Square

In a statement, organizers say they are concerned about corporate interests' effect on political institutions and public policy, along with putting profits above the well-being of communities.

Occupy Winnipeg
at Manitoba legislature building

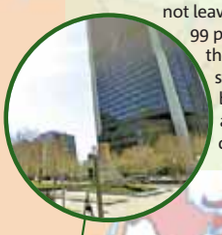
Organizers say the seven-hour walk through the city's banking district is a call to action against corporate greed, corporate control and Third World living conditions in northern communities.

Occupy Halifax
at Grande Parade Square

Members will be taking their message beyond the designated area outside city hall to Halifax's Nocturne festival, set for the same night, said Dylan Sagar, an administrator of Occupy Halifax's Facebook page. Since the group sprung up at the beginning of October, its Facebook page has attracted more than 2,300 likes.

Occupy Montreal
at Square Victoria

"We will not be moved. We will not leave. We are the 99 per cent," reads the group's website. It advises bringing tents and warm clothes.



Occupy Calgary
at Bankers Hall

Organizers have set up a "safe camp" on St. Patrick's Island, which, as of mid-week, had 50 residents and was continuing to grow. Police plan to bring in more officers if necessary, expressing concern anarchists could infiltrate the rally.

Occupy Toronto
at Financial District

Organizers have been haunted by last year's crackdown on G20 protests. In a petition to Toronto Chief Bill Blair, signatories called on police to respect the rights of demonstrators. "The goal is public safety and facilitation of peaceful protest," responded police spokesman Mark Pugash.

Occupy Ottawa
at Confederation Park

"We're hoping that there will be between 500 to 1,000 out and we can actually engage them in the demand-making process. It is very difficult to align everybody's (points of view)," said Kevin Donaghy, one of the lead organizers, who said he himself will be advocating for greater protection of First Nations lands

Web can't beat word of mouth for Occupy movement

Forget Twitter. The best way to organize a protest in 826 cities around the world is good, old-fashioned word of mouth.

Facebook and Twitter appear to be outlets for anti-establishment ranting rather than almighty mass-mobilizing tools. In fact, despite the movement's rallying cry that claims "We are the 99 per cent," figures on social-media networks reveal a bleaker reality:

According to Twitter trends aggregators twopular.com and TwitterCounter.com, #event15october and #globalchange don't feature in the Top 60 global trends of the week.

Meanwhile, the official Facebook page for 15october reveals that there are more people who didn't click on the "attendance" button (338,000) than the would-be demonstrators (some 50,000).

GREGORIO BORGIA/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ A protester rests at a makeshift tent camp in Rome, Thursday, in preparation for Saturday's demonstration against the Italian government's austerity package.

The reason for the lack of social-media activity is clear, said social-media analyst Andrew Girdwood.

"For these kinds of protests like the Occupy Wall Street movement, there's one co-ordination that needs to be done, but it is ultimately up to people to tell their friends to go," he said.

In fact, according to Girdwood, "people living in areas of the world with advanced traditional media coverage will just need to switch on the television to check if something is happening nearby, and eventually head to the demonstration."

The global hot spots today are those countries hard hit by the financial crisis and subsequent European Union debt woes like Italy and Spain.

Shooting suspect unstable: Ex-wife

Police have not released victims' information Ex-wife was at salon when gunman came, witnesses say

The ex-wife of the man suspected of killing eight people in a shooting rampage at a California hair salon claimed in court papers filed this year that he was mentally unstable and had threatened to kill himself or someone else at least once.

Michelle Fournier Dekraai made the allegations in May during her long-running custody battle with Scott Dekraai over their seven-year-old son. There was no sign that she had filed a restraining order to keep him physically away from her.

Police say Scott Dekraai opened fire in the Seal Beach, Calif. salon where his ex-wife worked Wednesday afternoon, a day after he was in court for a hearing related to the custody dispute.

Police have not released information about the victims, and it's unclear if Dekraai's ex-wife is among them.

The couple divorced in 2007, and Scott Dekraai remarried, but the battle over their son continued to rage. Michelle Fournier Dekraai wrote in the court papers that her ex-husband was "almost manic when it comes to demanding absolute right to control our son and make unilateral decisions."

She wrote that giving Scott Dekraai more custody of their child would be lead to "a situation where the inmates are running the asylum."

The changing face of America

Occupy demonstrations spread beyond U.S. borders
New York protest may be halted with park cleanup

It doesn't exactly have a message, except to say that something is deeply wrong with life in America.

Occupy Wall Street started on Sept. 17 and quickly moved to lower Manhattan's Zuccotti Park, after Canadian alternative magazine Adbusters issued a call to arms of sorts.

The movement has since spread from Washington to Wichita, and even beyond U.S. borders.

"We are the 99 per cent," many of the websites and signs say, signalling the economic disparity between the richest, most powerful 1 per cent and the rest of the nation.

Spinoff initiatives are happening in dozens of countries around the world, including Canada, with Occupy Toronto beginning Saturday.

But the movement's roots are distinctly American. Spurred by a worsening economy following the 2008 financial meltdown, the land of dreams has become for many — including the middle class — a place of lost opportunity.

"As the bad times have endured, Americans have also lost their belief in redress and recovery," reads the New York Times editorial published last weekend.

"At this point, protest is the message: Income inequality is grinding down that middle class, increasing the ranks of the poor, and threatening to create a permanent underclass of able, willing but jobless people."

So, citizens — some with grey hair, some with children — are gathering en masse on street corners and city parks to speak out on everything from corporate greed to the death penalty.

And what could be more American than what happened in New York City on Monday: Rapper Kanye West, arriving in gold chain and grill, crashing the party.

But as the movement spreads, the original New York protesters fear a cleanup set for Friday morning is actually an excuse to end the camp-out in Zuccotti Park, despite assurances from Mayor Michael Bloomberg that they would not be evicted.

"As the bad times have endured, Americans have also lost their belief in redress and recovery."
NEW YORK TIMES EDITORIAL

The park's owner, Brookfield Properties, handed out a notice saying protesters would be allowed back after a planned park cleanup if they abide by park regulations — including a prohibition of tents, tarps and sleeping bags, lying on benches and storing personal property on the ground. This could end the protesters' ability to continue living, sleeping and preparing food in the park, The Associated Press reported. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICES

▶ Occupy Wall Street protester Kai C. reads the book The Fall of America by Allen Ginsberg as he sits in front of Oakland city hall on Thursday in Oakland, Calif.

Occupy highlights

- New York City: Video of young women being pepper-sprayed by an NYPD supervisor about a week into the movement sparked online outrage. The next week, several hundred protesters were arrested for blocking traffic to the Brooklyn Bridge.
- Boston: One of the first Occupy movements outside New York happened in the home of Harvard and MIT and focused on — you guessed it — education. Associated Press reports hundreds of college students marched through downtown Monday and gathered on Boston Common, charging that the education system mimics "irresponsible, unaccountable and unethical financial practices."
- Los Angeles: Actor Danny Glover toured the Occupy L.A. area outside City Hall last weekend with a delegation of women's groups and teachers' unions. He said he was there to support young men and women "making their own history in their own time."
- Cincinnati: "I'll believe corporations are people when I see one executed," read one woman's sign as she marched through the Ohio city last Saturday. It was among other apparent references to Troy Davis, who was executed last month in Georgia for killing a police officer despite his supporters' pleas that evidence against him was faulty.
- Las Vegas: The possibility of hitting the jackpot could not stop the occupiers. Hundreds of protesters marching along a street with Caesars Palace and the Mirage pretty much sums up the disenchantment with American institutions.

Liberals to announce new cabinet

Premier Dalton McGuinty appears to be extending the olive branch to his opposition rivals as Ontario heads into its first minority parliament in 26 years.

Just one seat shy of a majority, McGuinty said Thursday he intends to deliver a "strong, steady, stable" government despite his reduced mandate.

"The best way to do that is to find ways to work with the opposition parties," he said after touring Huawei, a telecom company in Markham, north of Toronto.

He plans to install a new, smaller cabinet Oct. 20 to go along with the reduced Liberal presence in the provincial legislature, but wouldn't say when parliament will return.

Olivia Chow spoke of Jack Layton's inspiring "hope" and "courage" at a prostate cancer luncheon in Halifax Thursday.

More than 200 people sporting Prostate Cancer Canada's signature blue striped ties, hats and handkerchiefs packed the room at Halifax Marriott Harbourfront Hotel for an the annual Leaders' Conference.

"He felt very blessed to have the opportunity to speak out about prostate cancer, and to do so with a national stage — something he knew would help other men," Chow told delegates of her late husband and former federal NDP leader, who passed away in late August.

Chow, the MP for Trinity-Spadina, applauded Nova Scotia's free prostate specific antigen (PSA) blood testing program, the test that detects the cancer, and spoke of the need for the same system countrywide.

▶ MP Olivia Chow speaks in Halifax yesterday.

Chow garnered multiple standing ovations from the attentive crowd, and sparked more than a few eruptions of laughter.

"We have a team of New Democratics determined to grow the best mustaches in town, and we call them our 'New Dem-MO-cratics,'" she said, referring to next month's Movember fundraiser that raises money for men's health.

All jokes aside, Chow said she hopes to help make this the best Movember in Canada's history, and believes the legacy of her husband's prominent and recognizable mustache will encourage that.

When asked by an audience member the reasoning for concealing the illness that took Layton's life, Chow said, "he didn't want people to lose hope if they had that kind of cancer."

Teen out on bail in pumpkin-theft case

Release comes a day after funeral for man beaten for trying to stop teens from stealing pumpkin

JOE LOFARO
@METRONEWS.CA
METRO CANADA IN OTTAWA

A Quebec teen charged with manslaughter in the death of a man who tried to stop a theft of a pumpkin was granted $2,000 bail yesterday.

Korey Perry, 19, of Pontiac, appeared briefly in court yesterday with his defense lawyer, Gerard Larocque.

Perry will appear in court again on Nov. 24 to arrange a preliminary hearing.

Perry was initially charged with assault causing bodily harm, but the charge was upgraded to manslaughter after 57-year-old Paul Hines died.

Hines tried to stop a group of teens from stealing a pumpkin at the IGA at 203 Chemin d'Aylmer in Aylmer, Que. on Sept. 29.

Hines was beaten in the incident and died in hospital on Oct. 6.

Larocque said Perry has a curfew to obey as per the regular bail conditions.

He expects the trial to start in late 2012 or early 2013. Perry was initially granted bail, but was re-arrested when police upgraded the charges.

France drops DSK sex assault case

Announcement marks a victory for ex-IMF chief But questions about his behaviour toward women revived

REMY DE LA MAUVINIERE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Tristane Banon, the French author who claimed former IMF chief Dominique Strauss-Kahn tried to rape her in 2003.

The Paris prosecutor's office on Thursday dropped its investigation into a writer's claim that Dominique Strauss-Kahn tried to rape her, though it said the former IMF chief admitted to behaviour that could qualify as sexual assault.

In a dramatic legal twist for the high-profile Strauss-Kahn, the prosecutor said it couldn't put Strauss-Kahn on trial for the lesser sexual assault charge because the incident occurred too long ago. The statute of limitations on that charge is three years; on attempted rape it's 10 years.

During questioning into the French case, Strauss-Kahn admitted to what prosecutors described in a statement as sexual assault against writer Tristane Banon, during a 2003 interview for a book she was writing.

"While for lack of sufficient elements of evidence, prosecution cannot be undertaken on the charge of attempted rape, facts that could be qualified as sexual assault have been acknowledged."
STATEMENT FROM THE PARIS PROSECUTOR'S OFFICE

Strauss-Kahn's lawyer, Henri Leclerc, told The Associated Press that the ex-IMF chief admitted that he tried to kiss Banon without her consent and she refused.

"He admitted no assault, no violence of any kind," Leclerc said. He said he didn't understand how the prosecutor could have interpreted the attempted kiss as sexual assault.

Under French law, sexual assault is an attack that does not involve an attempt to penetrate the victim. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mulcair throws his hat in the ring

- Montreal MP key player in the party's rise in Quebec
- Becomes 6th candidate to enter NDP leadership race

RYAN REMIORZ/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Quebec NDP MP Thomas Mulcair plays to the cameras as he poses for photos with his wife, Catherine, and his mother, Jeanne, at a news conference Thursday in Montreal.

In a speech sprinkled with roughly two-dozen references to Jack Layton, Thomas Mulcair announced his bid to lead the NDP and complete the mission set out by its late leader: Forming a government.

"Jack may not be here to see that day," the Montreal MP said. "But thanks to him, that day will come.... I'm not trying to replace Jack Layton. I want to succeed him by building on what he's already brought."

A fluently bilingual lawyer, university professor and provincial civil servant, Mulcair is considered an underdog at this stage but may be among the only candidates who poses a threat to perceived frontrunner Brian Topp.

Five contenders have so far declared their candidacies: Topp, Saganash, B.C. MP Nathan Cullen, Ottawa MP Paul Dewar and a little-known Nova Scotia pharmacist, Martin Singh.

PM agrees royal rules need change

Debate over who inherits British throne, and by extension Canada's head of state, appears set to bloom

SEAN KILPATRICK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Prime Minister Stephen Harper

Less than four months after William and Kate wowed Canadian crowds on a cross-country tour, their visit may have rattled loose the monarchist teacups at the Prime Minister's Office.

A British movement to modernize the 300-year-old rules of succession for replacing the monarch has been kick-started by the prospect of Prince William — second in line to the throne behind his father Charles — and Catherine, the Duchess of Cambridge, producing a child.

Under the 1701 Act of Settlement, precedence is given to male heirs, bypassing older sisters. The rules also bar any heir married to a Catholic from inheriting the throne.

David Cameron, Britain's prime minister, sent a letter last month to Commonwealth nations seeking consensus on rewriting these rules.

Commonwealth leaders will discuss Cameron's proposals when they meet later this month at a summit in Perth, Australia.

"Prime Minister Harper has informed Prime Minister Cameron that we are supportive of these reasonable modernizations," spokesman Andrew MacDougall said Thursday in an email. Harper's chief spokesman added, however, that the government doesn't "believe there should be extensive parliamentary time spent debating them when the government is focused on creating jobs and growth in the economy."

Only 15 of 54 Commonwealth countries still recognize the Queen as their head of state.

Hedge-fund tycoon gets 11 years jail

Judge concludes Rajaratnam made $50-million profit from illegal trades

A former billionaire who was the primary target of what prosecutors called the biggest hedge-fund insider-trading case in U.S. history was sentenced Thursday to 11 years in prison.

Galleon Group founder Raj Rajaratnam also was fined $10 million US.

U.S. District Judge Richard J. Holwell announced the sentence after concluding that Rajaratnam made well over $50 million US in profits from his illegal trades.

The judge said the Sri Lanka native needs a kidney transplant and suffers from advanced diabetes, an illness he took into consideration in giving him leniency. And he credited Rajaratnam's charity work, citing his work to help victims of the earthquake in Pakistan and Sept. 11, among others.

$70M+ The prosecution said Rajaratnam's illegal trades netted between $70 million and $75 million (US).

The sentencing culminates a series of convictions that followed the October 2009 announcement of Rajaratnam's arrest. More than two dozen people were arrested; all were convicted and got sentences ranging from a few months to 10 years.

BlackBerry services back, but RIM faces PR woes

BlackBerry services were back to normal Thursday after four days of outages around the world, but the creator of the popular smartphone device faces a new set of challenges as it tries to clean up a public-relations headache.

Research In Motion's two co-CEOs, Mike Lazaridis and Jim Balsillie, emerged from over three days of silence to try and quell BlackBerry owners' concerns about the biggest outage in the Canadian company's history.

"We're committed to restoring the trust that we've worked so hard to earn over the years," said Lazaridis on a conference call, alongside Balsillie, a rare appearance of both executives together.

Co-CEO Balsillie assured customers that the outage had nothing to do with the company scaling back its workforce. RIM recently cut more than 2,000 jobs.

The length of the outage has bruised Research In Motion's reputation for reliability and could give consumers and businesses another reason to switch to Apple or Android devices.

Wall Street protesters have real beefs: Flaherty

Finance Minister Jim Flaherty says he has some sympathy for the Occupy Wall Street movement that is spawning imitators elsewhere, including Canada. Flaherty says the demonstrations are understandable, given high unemployment rates among youth and the increased concentration of wealth among a very few.

But he says the conditions that led to the U.S. movement are mostly not present in Canada.

Downloading glitches hit Apple

Release of iOS 5 operating system slowed down by overloaded servers

Social media sites were abuzz Wednesday with iPhone and iPad owners not being able to download Apple's new operating system, iOS 5. Downloads would stop without warning, often sending a mysterious message, "Error 3200."

Apple fans, who had been gloating about the reliability of their smartphones in the face of a multi-day outage of BlackBerry service, were left fuming. User forums were flooded with frustrated accounts of aborted downloads.

Apple's flagship store in New York City was mobbed by people whose iPhones had been "bricked" (rendered inoperable) because of an aborted download, according to Apple Insider.

By Thursday morning, the mood on Twitter had lifted, as users began exploring a bundle of the new features on iOS 5.

Wendy's brings back catchphrase

As Wendy's brings its new line of Dave's Hot 'n' Juicy Cheeseburgers to Canada this week, its ad campaign asks consumers to ponder a profound question the company first raised in 1984: Where's the beef?

Back then, the question was from 82-year-old Clara Peller who had been pushed to her limit by fast-food joints passing off shriveled patties as hamburgers.

Airline accuses union of bad-faith bargaining

Air Canada demanded compensation Thursday from the union representing its 6,800 flight attendants, which it has accused of bargaining in bad faith.

The airline, which did not specify how much it was seeking, said the Canadian Union of Public Employees did not do enough to encourage the ratification of two tentative deals that were negotiated but later rejected by the flight attendants.

In the unfair-labour-practice complaint to the Canada Industrial Relations Board, Air Canada accused the union of increasing its demands in its latest round of bargaining. In addition, the Montreal-based airline said the union misrepresented what its members would accept to ratify a collective agreement.

The allegations of bad faith bargaining Thursday came as the union protested at the airport in Montreal and federal Labour Minister Lisa Raitt's constituency office in Milton after a planned strike was blocked just hours before it was set to begin.

In Ottawa, police were looking for a man who showed up at an Air Canada executive's home Wednesday night with what appeared to be a handgun.

Police said the man did not threaten to kill Duncan Dee, the airline's chief operating officer and its main spokesman during the airline's latest contract dispute, but were looking to talk to the unidentified man. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Korea Exchange Bank employees are opposing the sale of a controlling stake in their bank to Hana Financial Group. U.S. private equity group Lone Star Funds agreed last November to sell its 51.02 per cent stake in the country's sixth biggest bank to Hana.

News in brief

China too good to miss: Fast

OTTAWA. Trade Minister Ed Fast, near the completion of a one-week trade mission to China, is urging businesses in Canada to take a leap into China, saying that, despite well-known pitfalls, the world's second biggest economy is just too good to pass on.

Faith eroding in economy

TORONTO. Canadians are taking an increasingly gloomy view of the economy, according to a survey released Thursday.

TNS Canada said its consumer confidence index has dropped four months in a row as ongoing stock market turmoil, bad U.S. economic news and the unresolved European debt crisis keep consumers jittery.

Boomers delaying downsizing: Study

Some keep family home so grown kids have place to live Others buying bigger houses, expensive condos

For baby boomers, home is turning out to be more than just where the heart is. It's where the kids are — and seem to have no immediate plans to vacate.

Some 17 per cent of Canadian baby boomers are delaying plans to downsize because they need the space to accommodate adult children, says TD Canada Trust's 2011 Boomer Buyers Report.

That number is closer to 22 per cent in British Columbia where Vancouver's hot housing market has pushed the price of even tiny condos into the stratosphere and made living at home the only viable option for young people.

But don't assume all those kids are still living at home because they are forced to, notes Peter Drake, vice-president of retirement and economic research for Fidelity Investments Canada, adding that many boomers value the importance of higher education for this generation.

"Boomers tend to think of consumption in very broad terms," says Drake, whose two grown children lived at home while working on doctoral degrees.

Almost 40 per cent of boomers who plan to retire in the next three years still have a mortgage on their home, and 35 per cent say their living expenses are so high, they are unlikely to pay it off before they stop working.

"There was a time when having debt in retirement used to be a big no-no. But baby boomers have always set their own standards and had big aspirations."

Spending more

Surveys of baby boomers who've already retired found 5 per cent tend to spend more — not less — once they've left work.

- A growing number are doing consulting or contract work, as much to keep busy as help pay for exotic trips and fancy homes.

FOOTLOOSE! KICK OFF THE SUNDAY SHOES!

THE METRO LIST

NEIL MORTON
METRO

1 Footloose remake: Starting Friday, you gotta cut loose, footloose, kick off the Sunday shoes, because the remake of 1984's music drama Footloose is out. It's about a big-city kid who moves to a small town where rock music and dancing have been banned. So ... please, Louise, pull me off of my knees! Jack, get Mack, come on before we crack! Lose your blues, everybody cut footloose!

2 Save a high school: PCVS, a historic downtown high school in Peterborough, Ont., founded in 1827 that counts Lester B. Pearson, Sean Cullen, Serena Ryder and Jim Balsillie as alumni, is fighting through public protests, petitions and YouTube videos to keep its school alive after the local school board recommended that it close. Shutting down an inner-city arts school with culture and heritage will have a significant impact on the economy and fabric of a downtown in a small city. Forget Footloose, this is real-life drama.

3 Winnipeg Jets: Yes, the Jets are flying again after a 15-year hiatus, with a star-studded home opener against Montreal Sunday night that included our PM, George Stroumboulopoulos, and Jim Cuddy and Chantal Kreviazuk singing the national anthem. The Jets might have lost the game, but they won the nation over and their home crowd of 15,000, which gave them a thunderous ovation at game's end. Welcome back.

4 Ping pong hip: SPiN Toronto, a new 12,000-square-foot basement ping-pong bar in downtown T.O., had its grand opening this week. It's trying to mimic the success of one of the same name (which it's part of) in Manhattan, part owned by Susan Sarandon. SPiN is a place to drink, play ping-pong and socialize. Just watch: The next big fad will be pool tables in every basement in the world. Next to a beer fridge.

5 Ron MacLean's Cornered: The hockey broadcaster icon's new memoir, Cornered, went on sale this week, and offers inside accounts from his early days as a part-time radio announcer and weather forecaster in Red Deer, Alta., to his time hosting Hockey Night in Canada. Sounds promising, but they should have just called it Coach's Corner and let Don Cherry write the prologue and epilogue.

6 Rosie's new crush: Rose O'Donnell is back — four years after leaving The View and a decade since ending her successful daytime talk show — with The Rosie Show, which debuted this week on the Oprah Winfrey Network. Thankfully, it appears she's not resuscitating her infatuation with Tom Cruise. That's so '90s. Apparently her new boy crush is Russell Brand. That's more 2011.

7 Lee Harvey Oswald's lover: Judyth Vary Baker is making a rare public appearance next week in Toronto to mark what would be Oswald's 72nd birthday. Baker, author of Me & Lee: How I Came to Know, Love and Lose Lee Harvey Oswald, has been trying to clear Oswald's name. Her take: Lee was an undercover agent who had penetrated a ring determined to murder president Kennedy and was actually trying to prevent it but instead got framed. So, JFK conspiracy buffs, there you go.

Worth mentioning

She's a 40-year-old mother of eight, with a ninth child due soon. The family homestead in a Burundi village is too small to provide enough food, and three of the children have quit school for lack of money.

"I regret to have made all those children," says Godelive Ndageramiwe.

At Ahmed Kasadha's prosperous farm in eastern Uganda, it's a different story.

"My father had 25 children — I have only 14 so far, and expect to produce more in the future," says Kasadha, who has two wives. He considers a large family a sign of success.

By the time Ndageramiwe's ninth child arrives, and any further members of the Kasadha clan, the world's population will have passed a momentous milestone. As of Oct. 31, according to the UN Population Fund, there will be seven billion people on Earth.

Experts say most of Africa — and other high-growth developing nations such as Afghanistan and Pakistan — will be hard-pressed to furnish enough food, water and jobs for their people.

Seattle superhero appears in court

A self-proclaimed superhero wore a charcoal-coloured mask Thursday as he entered a Seattle courtroom where prosecutors said they hadn't yet decided whether to file charges against him.

Phoenix Jones, whose real name is Benjamin John Francis Fodor, was arrested early Sunday after police say he pepper-sprayed four people who had left a nightclub. Fodor said he was trying to break up a fight when he was attacked. The clubgoers insisted to police they hadn't been fighting.

During the hearing, a court officer asked Jones to remove his mask and he complied. He also wore a superhero uniform under a button-down shirt.

"I decided to make a difference and stop crime in my neighbourhood," Fodor said.

Synopsis

- Ren (Kenny Wormald) is a big city kid forced by circumstance to move to the small town of Bomont, Ga., where dancing is outlawed. Ren, a former gymnast and dancing fool, challenges the law, butts heads with the local preacher (Dennis Quaid) and falls in love with the minister's daughter Ariel (Julianne Hough). Will the town lift the ban? Will the love birds ever get to break dance in public?

Country-fried fun

Footloose redux grittier than expected, with stars Kenny Wormald and Julianne Hough shining on the dance floor But in the end, it's still full of cheese

Richard: Mark, Footloose is grittier than you would imagine a movie starring Ryan Seacrest's girlfriend to be. The slickness normally associated with contemporary teen fare is mostly missing here, replaced with the steamy Southern feel that permeates director Craig Brewer's other films. You won't hear a line like, "You're sexier than socks on a rooster," in any of the Twilight movies.

Mark: Yes, Richard, the best thing about the movie is its authentic country-fried details. It doesn't condescend to its blue collar characters and that's to its credit. I thought the original was dated way back in the '80s. Now, in an Internet world, the town that banned dancing would have been ridiculed all over America and the American Civil Liberties Union would have filed suit immediately. And why did the town ban teen dancing when the real problem was teen drinking?

RC: Because then the movie would have to have been called Intervention, and that's a whole different story! Rebooting a well-loved classic is a tricky business. There are slight changes, Ren is now from Boston instead of Chicago, the tractor game of chicken from the original is now a bus race and the dancing has been updated but the upbeat rebellious core (and most of the songs) of the '84 movie is intact.

MB: Speaking of dancing, I wish there had been more of it. The first dance scene in the parking lot had nice energy, Kenny Wormald's solo when he dances off his anger in the warehouse was riveting, but then it takes a long time to get to the big finale, which I thought was a dud. The movie should have gone craaaaaaazzzzzy at that point, but everyone, including the choreographer, was on their best behaviour. And what did you think of the acting?

RC: I thought Wormald and Hough shone the brightest when they are in motion on the dance floor — which isn't often enough — but Miles Teller as Willard (played by Chris Penn in the original), Ren's dance-challenged best friend steals the show on and off the dance floor.

MB: You could not be more right. Teller has the looks and presence of a young John Cusack. And only Dennis Quaid could take the thankless preacher role and imbue it with a sense of humanity. But in the end, it's still a cheesy flick, even if this remake takes it from mild to medium cheddar.

The Big Year
Genre: Comedy
Director: David Frankel
Stars: Jack Black, Steve Martin, Owen Wilson
⊕⊕⊕½

Take ambition, intrigue, passion, backstabbing, dastardly deeds and greed on a massive scale, add laughs, set it in the world of competitive bird watching and you have The Big Year. Audience faves Black, Martin and Wilson embark on the yearlong competition to score the most species sightings, in a strangely fascinating, insightful and funny road trip and gets added credit for having the guts regarding the whole bird watching thing. Frankel brings Marley-and-Me heart and The-Devil-Wears-Prada sass to this unexpected gem, based on Mark Obmascik's book.

ANNE BRODIE

The Thing
Genre: Horror
Director: Matthijs van Heijningen Jr.
Stars: Mary Elizabeth Winstead, Joel Edgerton

Classic sci-fi thriller The Thing gets its first makeover in nearly 30 years in this updated prequel about a replicating alien killing off stranded scientists in remote Antarctica. While the film delivers serviceable respect to John Carpenter's 1982 version with exemplary use of scenery, effects and a strong lead in Mary Elizabeth Winstead (Final Destination 3), the outcome is relatively predictable and the plot points somewhat transparent.

Take Shelter
Genre: Drama
Director: Jeff Nichols
Stars: Michael Shannon, Jessica Chastain, Shea Whigham
⊕⊕⊕½

Take Shelter sees imposing actor Michael Shannon getting a wide canvas to expand his brand of slow burn unease, starring as a rural Ohio family man who has apocalyptic visions of greasy rain, poison gas, murder and death. Is he truly mad or is there something to his grim prophecies? Director Jeff Nichols doesn't reveal the answer until the last sequence and though his film is slow, Shannon is so gripping (as is Jessica Chastain as his long suffering wife), his character so complex and his descent so tragic that we can't help but watch, fascinated and frightened.

Revenge of the Electric Car

Genre: Documentary
Director: Chris Paine
Narrator: Tim Robbins

Returning to the subject of his 2006 documentary Who Killed the Electric Car?, Chris Paine explores the auto industry's sluggish acceptance of the technology in Revenge of the Electric Car. Featuring such personalities as ex-GM head Bob Lutz and celebrities like Danny DeVito, Revenge displays superb access but the vehicle's mass approval causes Revenge to lack the urgency of Paine's prequel.

Benda Bilili!

Genre: Documentary
Directors: Renaud Barret, Florent de La Tullaye
Stars: Leon Likabu, Roger Landu, Coco Ngambali

Shot on grainy digital video, Benda Bilili! looks as gritty as the story it tells. Staff Benda Bilili, a group of physically handicapped musicians, meet on the streets of Kinshasa each night to sing their unique tales of woe, their dream of touring Europe clashing with the economic realities of life in Congo. A moving story, even the coldest hearts will warm to the band's music and optimism as obstacles pile up in their attempt to record an album.

Dead Dreams

Genre: Thriller
Director: Josh Koffman
Stars: Corey Sevier, Christian Potenza, Amber Goldfarb

It's hard to be too hard on a homegrown horror movie like Dead Dreams, but low budget forgiveness aside, the flick is a chore to endure. A stubble faced shlub suffering from amnesia wakes up to come face to face with what appears to be Ringo Starr in a Le Chateau frock. The Matrix castoff is actually some sort of spook called the Sandman and he convinces our hapless hero that a psychopath killed his wife, setting forth a twisty chain of events filled with fake gore and melodrama. Some good ideas can't overcome an over-ambitious storyline that gets crippled under the weight of tin-eared dialogue and goofy performances.

All swashbuckled up

The Three Musketeers return but this time in 3D ‘The movie doesn’t take itself seriously,’ says co-star Orlando Bloom That explains the giant airship

ANTHONY JOHNSTON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

“All for one, and one for all!” — that ageless motto, evoking 17th century swashbuckling Frenchmen, sounds its familiar jingle yet again with the release of a new The Three Musketeers.

This time, however, we get “action fresh and modern for the younger audience”, according to director and co-producer Paul W.S. Anderson, the man behind the Resident Evil saga.

“I felt that every generation ought to get its own version of The Three Musketeers — one that reflects of that particular decade,” he says of the 1844 classic by Alexandre Dumas.

So in essence: a new cast, some peppy dialogue and novel visual effects — all in trending 3D.

Anderson’s “stellar ensemble cast” has some degree of critical acclaim: Logan Lerman, who leads as D’Artagnan, is coming-of-age in Hollywood, having appeared in Percy Jackson; the world-weary Musketeers are played by Matthew Macfadyen (Pride & Prejudice), Ray Stevenson (TV’s Rome) and Luke Evans (the upcoming Immortals); and Anderson’s wife and cult favourite Milla Jovovich is triple-agent Milady de Winter.

Among the bad guys, Oscar-winner Christoph Waltz (Inglourious Basterds) plays the conniving Richelieu, and onetime A-lister Orlando Bloom appears as the dastardly Duke of Buckingham.

ROLF KONOW/SMPSP

D’Artagnan and his buddy Musketeers must protect the King of France from those two maniacs.

“The movie doesn’t take itself seriously,” Bloom confesses. “This is a pop culture, tongue-in-cheek, irreverent, fun, ‘go buy a big bag of popcorn and take a trip’ version of the movie. It’s not a historically accurate retelling of The Three Musketeers that the novelist wrote.”

Bloom’s devious Duke, with his hyperreal pompadour coif and garish frill-necked outfits, seems an epitome of the movie’s self-caricature. Even the Musketeers prefer to guzzle booze than spruce themselves up for action.

“I don’t know why we didn’t get the theme music from [the ’80s cartoon] Dogtanian and the Three Muskehounds — instead we got [British pop stars] Take That,” Macfadyen jokes. “What’s more, I had a pang of jealousy for Orlando’s costumes.”

“All for one, and one for all — it does exactly what it says on the tin,” says Bloom, adding: “and it’s in 3D, and it has a gigantic airship.”

Young heartthrob

On The Three Musketeers set, everyday was a bad hair day for Logan Lerman.

- “I was very conscious of those extensions,” says the 19-year-old from Beverly Hills about the tousled emo-meets-This is Spinal Tap mullet he wore.
- “They were like little beads, melted on to five strands of hair one at a time. Honestly it felt like a beanie that you couldn’t take off,” says Lerman.

Have you got talent? Martin Short wants to see you perform

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Martin Short

Martin Short isn’t sure just what kind of judge he’ll be on the upcoming Canada’s Got Talent.

“I have no idea. I’ve never done anything like this before. Which is its appeal,” says the Emmy-winning actor, who was in Toronto Thursday to promote his participation in the TV talent competition.

“But I do know if you’re not yourself, it will just come off as hollow. I’m not there to play a role. I’m there to be me.”

The show — which begins filming auditions across Canada next week — features amateur entertainers of all kinds vying for fame and fortune.

It’s a spinoff of the successful British version that launched the career of Susan Boyle. An American version has also been successful.

Short — best known for his comic turns on SCTV and Saturday Night Live — says he was attracted by the show’s premise of discovering new performers.

“For so long, I’ve been asked why there are so many talented Canadians. Is it something in the water?” he says.

“The reality is — there are a lot of talented Canadians. And to see them at the start of their careers like this is very thrilling.”

Short says he’s been lucky in that he hasn’t had to audition much himself.

He says a stint in a celebrated Toronto production of Godspell in the early seventies really got his career rolling.

Canada’s Got Talent will also provide Short with the opportunity to see parts of Canada he’s never seen before.

“Halifax I’m looking forward to. Surprisingly, I’ve never been to Halifax.”

Canada’s Got Talent premieres on Citytv in March.

Filmmaker strikes Shakespearean vein

MATT KIELTYKA
IN VANCOUVER

William Shakespeare would have a field day with Wiebo Ludwig.

Equally vilified as a terrorist and hailed for his long-standing battle against oil and gas giants, the reclusive preacher at the centre of David York’s new documentary, Wiebo’s War, is as interesting, complicated and flawed as a protagonist gets.

In fact, York uses King Lear to describe the notorious man suspected of the 2008 EnCana pipeline bombings.

“I am a man more sinned against than sinning,” York recited at the Vancouver International Film Festival last week. “He’s a conflicted family man. What he was doing in his struggle was trying to defend his family and his land.

“You can’t judge somebody until you get a sense of the pressures they’re under and that became the purpose of the film … to give the audience a means to arrive at their own judgments, to see if they’d be sympathetic and to think about what they’d do if they were in that situation.”

It wasn’t long after York started filming his portrait that a new string of bombings surfaced and the Ludwig family was once again thrust in the middle of a police and media storm.

The access afforded to the filmmaker allowed York to capture Ludwig — everything from his faith, and motives to the horrific health effects nearby drilling has had on his family — in a way that national news headlines simply couldn’t convey.

“My picture of him is completely at odds of the current affairs version of him that everybody knows,” said York. “He’s a human being, and so am I, and so are you.”

▶ Weibo’s War opens Oct. 21 at The Royal.

Whether the actions of this particular human being are right or wrong are ultimately left open to interpretation.

Wiebo’s War opens theatrically in major Canadian cities starting this week.

The film will also tour “oil patch” communities affected by drilling.

SALUTE THE UNSUNG HEROES OF ROCK 'N' ROLL

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

If anyone asked you to list some of the great heroes of rock 'n' roll, you'd probably come back with names like Elvis, Lennon and Cobain.

All completely legitimate responses, yes. But here are some names that are also just as important to the history of rock — but in a different way.

▶ Though Jimi Hendrix used the foot pedal to perfection on his classic song Voodoo Chile, it should be noted that he did not invent the guitar apparatus. That distinction belongs to Del Casher.

George Beauchamp
Most people credit Les Paul with having something to do with the invention of the electric guitar — and he did. But the original props must go to Beauchamp, who invented an electrically-amplified guitar in 1931 and began selling models with the help of the Ro-Pat-In Corporation the following year.

The first documented performance featuring an electric guitar was in 1932 using one of Beauchamp's Electric Spanish models.

Hugh Le Caine
An atomic physicist by vocation, Le Caine ended up in Ottawa working with circuits that could tame electricity and turn it into sounds.

By the mid-'40s, he had constructed an apparatus that made music using a piano-style keyboard.

Very cool — but calling his invention The Electronic Sackbut wasn't a great marketing move.

Grady Martin
During a session in Nashville in 1960, Grady's guitar amplifier suffered a sort of meltdown.

Instead of sounding clean and pure, his guitar sounded fuzzy and distorted — but in a cool way. With the help of some engineers, Grady came up with a foot pedal that could summon this fuzziness on demand.

It became known as a "fuzz pedal" and gave guitarists a way to make their instrument sound powerful and menacing.

Del Casher
Not too long after Grady Martin discovered the power of fuzz, Del — who played guitar for everyone from Lawrence Welk to Frank Zappa — discovered a circuit made by the Thomas Organ Company called a midrange boost.

Fiddling with it produced the same sort of effect as a trumpeter or trombonist using a mute over the horn. Adapting it to a foot pedal, he gave one to Zappa who gave it to Jimi Hendrix. He used it to great effect in Voodoo Chile in much the same way Eric Clapton featured it in Cream's White Room. Guitarists have been using wah-wah pedals ever since.

Jim Marshall
Marshall ran a music shop in London. When guitarists started demanding more powerful amplifiers, he started building them. Marshall Amplifiers are now standard dream gear for guitarists everywhere. Oh, and did I mention that Marshall was a drummer?

Kutcher expecting to see divorce papers

Demi Moore consulting with attorneys after cheating rumours surface

Ashton Kutcher is reportedly "expecting" Demi Moore to file for divorce after Sara Leal went public with details of her night with the Two and a Half Men star, according to Radar Online.

"Ashton is absolutely gutted. Ashton had confessed his sexual relationship with Sara to Demi after it happened," a source says.

"She's currently consulting with divorce attorneys. Ashton doesn't want her to file for divorce, and is hoping they can work it out. However, Ashton expects that Demi will likely file. Ashton was hoping that Sara wouldn't give any interviews about their sexual encounter, but now she's spilling all the seedy details and it doesn't help matters at all."

Swank claims ignorance

WE BELIEVE HER Hilary Swank is very, very sorry about attending a birthday party for Chechen president and accused human rights violator Ramzan Kadyrov earlier this month, according to the Associated Press.

"I deeply regret attending this event. If I had a full understanding of what this event was apparently intended to be, I would never have gone," Swank says in a statement.

The Oscar-winning actress claims the invitation was for a concert and made no reference to Kadyrov's birthday. Jean Claude Van Damme also attended the event.

Complement Chinese food

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA

Even though it's been making wine since around 5,000 B.C., as a culture China's always been about the food, so its population never embraced the art of combing liquids and solids with the enthusiasm of their counterparts elsewhere.

Since Chinese food is a combo of sweet, sour and spicy, finding wines to work with everything on your plate is about as easy as keeping a straight face when someone tells you he or she likes the Charlie Sheen-less Three And A Half Men.

My pick is something soft with a touch of residual sweetness like a German riesling. Off-dry sparkling and rosé wines work, too.

If you want the hottest Asian food marriage, fill your glass with Moscato. Originally Italian, American upstarts like the non-vintage Barefoot Moscato ($7.99 - $11.99) take all the round, lightly-sweet fruit of the muscat grape and massage it into a perfectly plush, tropically-influenced (and not too boozy) companion for any Chinese menu.

Cook like the Quons

The family behind The Lingnan restaurant, and stars of the The Quon Dynasty, share Black Bean Chicken and Barbecue Pork Fried Rice recipes

Loved by its customers, the Lingnan restaurant in Edmonton is cosy and elegant but quaintly out of date. The Quon Dynasty follows the family's adventures through a realm power struggles, sibling rivalry and egg rolls.

Black Bean Chicken

This recipe has been popular at the Lingnan since the 1970s. The family makes its own black bean garlic sauce, but you can find it at any good Chinese grocery, and even at some regular supermarkets.

Black bean sauce is popular in Cantonese cooking. Try adding a teaspoon or two to your own stir-fries. And, if you enjoy this recipe, try substituting beef or shrimp for the chicken, or try different vegetable combos. Chinese cooking should be fun!

Preparation:

1. Blend together seasonings, except the 1 tbsp oil. Coat chicken with the seasonings; then, stir in the oil. Marinate at least 15 minutes.
2. Heat 3 tbsp oil in pan. Fry chicken until cooked. Strain and set aside.
3. Heat 2 tbsp oil. Add black bean sauce and onion. Stir-fry until it smells good (about 2 minutes). Add peppers, celery and carrots, and stir-fry until onions are soft. Add chicken and cooking wine. Mix well. Add in 1 tsp. sugar, ½ tbsp oyster sauce, white pepper and sesame oil. Pour in chicken stock. When sauce boils, thicken with cornstarch mixture. (1 tsp cornstarch and 1 tbsp water).

RECIPE COURTESY OF THE QUON DYNASTY

Ingredients:

Chicken seasoning
- 1 tsp powdered chicken broth mix
- 1 tsp light soy sauce
- 1 tsp oyster sauce
- ½ tsp sugar
- 1 tbsp cornstarch
- 2 tbsp water
- Dash of black pepper
- 2 drops sesame oil
- 1 tbsp oil (add last)

Black Bean Sauce Chicken
- 5 tbsp oil for frying
- 14 oz boneless, skinless chicken thighs, in ½-in. cubes
- 2 tsp black bean sauce
- 1/3 small onion, coarsely chopped
- 1/3 each green and red pepper, cut into chunks
- 1 stalk celery, sliced
- 5-6 slices carrot
- 1 tsp cooking wine
- 1 tsp sugar
- ½ tbsp oyster sauce
- dash each white pepper
- dash sesame oil
- 4 oz chicken stock, canned
- 1 tsp cornstarch dissolved in 1 tbsp water, for thickening

▶ This recipe makes three to four servings.

Barbecue Pork Fried Rice

Fried rice has been a popular dish at the Lingnan since it first opened in the 1940s. You can also make fried rice using beef, shrimp or chicken, and with vegetables like peas or mushrooms.

Preparation:

1. Beat eggs, salt and white pepper. Heat 1 tbsp oil in non-stick pan and scramble eggs. Set aside.
2. Fry barbecue pork for a minute or two and set aside.
3. Heat pan with 2 tbsp oil. Fry small onion until translucent. Add rice and stir-fry until it 'dances' in the pan.
4. Stir in 2 tsp chicken broth mix, 1 ½ tsp light soy sauce and 1/8 tsp salt. Sprinkle with drops of water. Stir-fry until it smells good.
5. Add eggs, pork and stir-fry for another few minutes. Add green onions and serve. RECIPE COURTESY OF THE QUON DYNASTY

Ingredients:
- 3 eggs
- ½ tsp salt
- dash white pepper
- 3 tbsp oil
- 4 oz cooked barbecue pork, diced (from Chinese barbecue, or barbecue counter in Chinese supermarket)
- ¼ small onion, chopped
- 3 ½ cups cooked rice (day-old works best)
- 2 tsp powdered chicken broth mix
- 1 ½ tsp light soy sauce
- 1/8 tsp salt
- 2 stalks green onion, chopped

The County General
This new resto/bar at Queen and Shaw (936 Queen Street West) is awash in wood accents and a lumber-heavy interior, and boasts a locally-sourced menu of down-home goodness. With bourbon galore and a mix of tunes to complement your heirloom tomato sandwich, expect this brunch, lunch, dinner spot to be a foodie haven...generally speaking, of course.

F As In Frank
This extension of the Vancouver-based vintage shop is sure to be a hotspot for '90s-loving shopaholics. Situated at 418 Queen West, the store boasts stretched band tanks, old school ballcaps, plaid oxfords, and pretty much any bad trend piece you can think of from the past two decades. Of course, they make perfect standout pieces to nearly any updated guy or doll wardrobe.

Modus Ristorante
Toronto has yet another Italian restaurant on the scene, but cause for buzz is notable with Modus Ristorante, helmed by ex-Brassaii chef Bruce Woods. Modus (at 145 King Street West) is upscale Italian dining at its finest, with a chic and swanky room and plenty of contemporary dishes. Expect it to be the Financial District's next noteworthy hotspot.

TORONTO OFFERS ENDLESS OPPORTUNITIES FOR RAISING A FAMILY

There are universal factors that make places great to live in — culture, education, health care, recreation, international connectivity, quality of architecture, access to nature and medical care are just a few — and Toronto checks off in every one of these categories.

This is why so many people choose to raise their families here, forgoing bigger, less expensive homes in the suburbs for the benefits of city life.

For parents Cheryl Embrett and Dan Cox, the main benefit of raising their daughter Scotia in the city is the opportunity their 11-year-old has to experience the endless cultural activities available around Toronto.

"We've enjoyed sticky rice in Chinatown, had moussaka on the Danforth, pierogies on Roncesvalles and pasta in Little Italy," says Embrett. "Who needs to travel the world when it's all right here in your backyard. Scotia can pick and choose from so many great art and drama courses ... and practically lives at the ROM — her very favourite place."

GET HANDS-ON AT THE ART GALLERY

The Art Gallery of Ontario's new Weston Family Learning Centre offers special art courses and workshops for children and families, as well as an interactive hands-on centre offering art-making and creative play activities for the entire family. Family Sundays also take place from October to March every week with events for families throughout the gallery between noon and 4 p.m.

The ample access to free family resources and activities is one of the reasons why Hayley and Derrick Mitchell moved back to Toronto from the U.S. when they had their first child last year.

"When our baby was first born, I signed up for Toronto's Living and Learning with Baby program, which is free through Toronto Health," says Mitchell.

"It was amazing. I met a ton of friends and it got me out socializing with my newborn in the freezing cold winter."

"There's always something fun and interesting happening somewhere in the city, often for free," adds Embrett.

"The challenge is finding the time to do it all." – Heather Buchan

AN INTELLIGENT LIFE.

MONDE

Monde Condominiums is an oasis of green living at Queens Quay and Lower Sherbourne. From the architecture to the interior design, every detail has been thoughtfully considered for minimum impact to the earth and a better quality of life at home.

1. Monde //
Monde is one of only a handful of residential buildings in Canada targeting LEED Gold certification. The team behind Monde (including developer Great Gulf, architect Moshe Safdie, designers Cecconi Simone and landscape architect Janet Rosenberg) considered every last detail when creating this world-class building. Eco-friendly materials, rainwater harvesting, green rooftops and premium construction standards are just some of the elements that help strike a delicate balance between architecture and nature.

2. A Green Welcome ////////////////////////
A spectacular three-storey lobby and a living green wall greet residents and guests at Monde. Aside from its calming effect, this living art improves air quality and reduces noise pollution. A variety of plant species and greenery create the palette of vegetation that will become a signature piece of this iconic building.

3. Sherbourne Common ////////////////////
Sherbourne Common, a 21st Century expression of outdoor space in an urban environment, is just outside Monde's front door. The central focus is a trio of large sculptures by Vancouver artist Jill Anholt, that are actually part of a complex storm water treatment facility which purifies waste water before recycling it back into Lake Ontario.

4. Convenient and Eco-friendly /////////
Monde's East Bayfront neighbourhood will feature numerous newly constructed pedestrian links, bike paths and transit facilities, making it easy to get virtually anywhere in downtown Toronto. This commitment to easy-access transit will reduce the number of cars in East Bayfront, making it a friendlier place for pedestrians, cyclists and the environment.

MONDE TO CUT A STRIKING SILHOUETTE ON T.O. SHORELINE

The location is outstanding, the design innovative, the amenities inviting and the suites luxurious. Monde is Great Gulf's newest condominium coming soon to Toronto's waterfront, at Queen's Quay and Lower Sherbourne.

The first private-sector residential condominium in the fabulous Waterfront Toronto redevelopment, Monde will cut a striking silhouette on the shoreline east of the downtown core, the city's New Blue Edge. Waterfront Toronto is North America's largest urban revitalization project — a master-planned, mixed-use LEED community that will add 40,000 new residences to the city, plus millions of square feet of commercial and retail space and kilometres of waterfront parks.

Contemporary Cecconi Simone-designed living spaces include kitchens with stainless steel and/or fully integrated appliances.

EXCEPTIONAL LOCALE

Monde is immersed in a world of convenience and nature. Sherbourne Common is just outside the front door, with its green space, splash pad/skating rink, pavilion, café and fountains. Also adjacent to Monde, Sugar Beach offers a tree-lined promenade, public plaza and urban beach.

Suite owners will also enjoy proximity to kilometres of boardwalk along the lake. This area is home to the new Canadian headquarters for media giant Corus Entertainment, and the Waterfront Health Sciences Centre campus for George Brown College. It's only steps to the Distillery District, an array of restaurants, St. Lawrence Market and much more.

The 55 acres that make up the East Bayfront section of the Waterfront Toronto Intelligent Community will also have new state-of-the-art broadband technology infrastructure offering residents Internet service that is 100 times faster than anywhere else in the city.

OUTSTANDING DESIGN

The internationally celebrated Moshe Safdie Architects of Boston worked in collaboration with Quadrangle Architects Limited of Toronto to design Monde's stunning 40-storey exterior, which showcases a delicate balance between architecture and nature.

Large staggered balconies project out perpendicularly from the building, and each is crowned by two storeys of open space to create lovely gardens in the sky. Stone was carefully selected for 40-foot columns outside the podium to make it look like an art gallery. The materials palette is minimalist and serene, and landscaping by Janet Rosenberg + Associates Design follows an aesthetic inspired by nature, lake and the city. Everything at Monde will be constructed to premium quality standards.

REMARKABLE SUSTAINABILITY

Great Gulf is targeting the LEED Gold standard for Monde, which is rare for residential construction in Canada. Location alone is conducive to environmental responsibility, with future pedestrian links, bike paths and transit facilities planned for the area. Residents will have easy access to ground-level shops, cafés and public spaces right in their building.

Monde will be crafted from eco-friendly light-coloured materials to avoid excessive heat absorption. Rainwater harvesting will provide nourishment for the green rooftops, and inside, low-emission paints, sealants and flooring will enhance air quality. A living green wall in the lobby will also improve air quality, reduce noise pollution and have a calming effect.

INVITING INTERIORS

Suite owners at Monde will have a world of opportunity for relaxing, recreating and schmoozing right under their own roof, beginning in the double-height lobby. This minimalist space will feature a living green wall and metal wall with a weathered finish.

The 9,000 square feet of sleek Cecconi Simone-designed amenities on the 12th floor include a negative-edge outdoor pool, outdoor lounge and firepit, kinesis training room, yoga and Pilates studio, billiards room, fireside lounge, indoor/outdoor fireplace, outdoor bar, kitchen/bar, dining room/cyber café, sports room/lounge, cardio and weights studio, and pool deck with cabanas. Men and women will appreciate separate change rooms, indoor gardens, experience showers, hot plunge, sauna and steam rooms.

SPECTACULAR SUITES

Living spaces designed by Cecconi Simone characterize the suites at Monde, where features and finishes (all as per plan) encompass floor-to-ceiling windows; contemporary custom kitchens with Corian countertops; balconies; nine-foot ceiling heights; prefinished engineered flooring; and bathrooms with a custom Corian sink. Views will include the downtown lights, the charming Distillery District and the many moods of Lake Ontario.

Monde will feature one-bedroom, one-bedroom + den, two-bedroom, two-bedroom + den, three-bedroom and three-bedroom + den designs in sizes from 483 to 1,655 square feet, priced from the low-$300,000s. Occupancy is slated for spring 2016.

THE MONDE TEAM

With almost four decades developing residential, retail, industrial and commercial buildings, multi-award-winning Great Gulf focuses on building unique condominiums that become sculptures within the urban skyline in some of North America's most vibrant cities. Boston-based Moshe Safdie Architects upholds the principles its founder has championed since he wowed the world with Habitat '67, the central feature of the World's Fair. He has designed some of Canada's best-known buildings.

Quadrangle Architects Limited is a Toronto firm that prides itself on creative design with context and functionality. Cecconi Simone Inc. is one of the world's leading interior design firms and creates inspiring spaces around the globe. One of Canada's most highly regarded landscape architecture firms, Janet Rosenberg + Associates is known for its masterpiece landscapes.

PERFECT SETTING

MAKE THE DINING ROOM CENTRE STAGE

Gathering around a table to share a meal is an important ritual as old as civilization itself. At no time is this more important than during the holidays when we gather with family. Often neglected during the rest of the year, the dining room becomes centre stage at this special time of year. This space generally has a more formal feel than the kitchen or great room — it's a stage of sorts for entertaining and it reflects what is important to us.

Hunter Douglas consulted with experts to offer the following tips for creating a dining room that works for you, whatever your style.

ADD SOME INSTANT PERSONALITY

Decorative placemats and co-ordinating settings add instant personality to the room while incorporating an extra element of colour.

Especially for the holidays, create a festive centrepiece by filling a crystal bowl with fresh cranberries, adding one aspirin per bag to preserve them, and topping it with fresh flowers with cut stems.

For place cards, use holiday cards in small gilded frames.

THE DINING TABLE: "A pedestal table allows uninterrupted seating without corner legs getting in the way," says decorating expert Karl Lohnes. He also notes that round or oval tables can accommodate more people than tables with square corners.

Designer Elaine Griffin, author of Design Rules, advises that the shape of your dining table should relate to the overall shape of the dining room's space. A rectangular room calls for a rectangular or oval table and the squarer the room, the better a round table looks in it.

DINING CHAIRS: First and foremost, dining chairs should be comfortable — upholstered or cushioned seats are a must and upholstered backs provide added comfort and help absorb sound — an important consideration for this room.

SIDEBOARDS AND CHINA CABINETS: Griffin notes that if your dining room is small, your sideboard should be, too. Don't overwhelm your room with one or with a china cabinet either.

WINDOWS: Dining room windows should enhance conversations around the table, not detract from them. Harsh glare, prying eyes and expanses of dark glass at night can all make the dining experience a less than optimal one.

RUGS: If you choose one, and Griffin reminds us that they can get "crumby" and make it difficult to slide chairs in and out, remember, a dark-coloured rug is better because spills will not stand out.

CHANDELIERS: They are a stylish way to achieve general illumination. To pick the perfect chandelier, measure the length of two walls in the room. Add them up and you get the diameter in inches of your chandelier.

With these simple tips you will have a dining room set for holiday cheer in no time.

WHERE LIFE HAPPENS

B.STREETS CONDOS READY TO MOVE INTO BUSTLING BLOOR & BATHURST AREA

Lindvest Properties Limited will soon launch sales for B.streets Condos in the vibrant community at Bloor and Bathurst. Conveniently located in the well-established Annex neighbourhood, this new development sits in the midst of some of Toronto's greatest landmarks, including Honest Ed's, Mirvish Village, Little Korea, Lee's Palace, the Bloor Cinema and a plethora of fantastic restaurants.

B.streets Condos' residents will enjoy the fact that the best amenities are just a few steps from their front door. Everything is within walking distance and you will never need a vehicle to be a part of the best entertainment, food, and services Toronto has to offer. B.streets offers front door access to the north/south streetcar, and is steps to the east/west subway.

Elegantly designed by Hariri Pontarini Architects, whose projects include the prestigious Schulich School of Business at York University and the Bahá'í Temple of Light, B.streets Condos is designed to aesthetically blend into the neighbourhood's many storefronts and shops.

Built on the site of an old school, the contemporary nine-storey structure will contain 195 suites and ground floor retail space.

Prices range from the mid $200,000s to just less than $1 million and sizes start at 383 square feet.

With interiors designed by Cecconi Simone, the design concept is a direct response to the neighbourhood and the architecture of the building; there are elements of industrial era design that have been reinterpreted in a modern way. Residents will appreciate the clean contemporary style: While eclectic in its material palette, it maintains a sophisticated urban aesthetic.

B.streets' prized location, just steps from the TTC and the best Toronto has to offer, cannot be underestimated. The opportunity to purchase a modern architectural gem in a well-established neighbourhood of this stature is rare.

To learn more, register now at bstreetscondos.com or call 416-53-CONDO (416-532-6636) so as not to miss out on this exceptional residential property.

Tigers save their season

Verlander strikes out eight Rangers, Delmon Young hits two home runs in win over Texas

▶ Tigers ace Justin Verlander pitches against the Rangers on Thursday.

Justin Verlander helped save Detroit's season with a gutsy effort and the Tigers hit for a sudden cycle to break away from Texas in a 7-5 victory Thursday that cut the Rangers' lead to 3-2 in the AL championship series.

Delmon Young hit two of Detroit's four homers and Miguel Cabrera had a tiebreaking double in the sixth inning — thanks to a bizarre bounce off third base. After building a five-run cushion, the Tigers held off Texas despite Nelson Cruz's record fifth home run of the series.

With closer Jose Valverde unavailable for Detroit, the Rangers cut it to 7-5 in the ninth and had Cruz on deck when Phil Coke retired Mike Napoli on a game-ending ground-out with two runners on.

Coke got five outs for his first career post-season save.

The Rangers get another chance to reach the World Series for the second straight season in Game 6 Saturday night at home. Derek Holland will start for Texas against Max Scherzer.

Verlander allowed four runs and eight hits in 7⅓ innings, throwing a career-high 133 pitches. He struck out eight and walked three.

"I want the ball. I want to go as deep as possible," Verlander said. "It was a battle for me, all night."

Verlander reached 100 mph on the stadium radar gun with pitch No. 133. Cruz, however, caught up to that fastball and sent it down the left-field line for a two-run homer, chasing Verlander and setting a record for homers in a league championship series.

Cruz became the fifth player to hit five homers in a post-season series. Reggie Jackson, Ken Griffey Jr., Juan Gonzalez and Chase Utley were the others.

After winning 24 games and leading the American League in ERA and strikeouts, Verlander hadn't had much of a chance to shine this post-season. Two of his first three playoff starts were ended early by rain delays.

A swift turn of events in the sixth helped Detroit pull ahead. The Tigers turned a bases-loaded double play to keep the score tied at 2, then opened the bottom half with a single, double, triple and homer — in order — to take a 6-2 lead.

It was the first time four consecutive batters on one team hit for a "natural" cycle in a post-season game, according to STATS LLC.

Crosby takes 'big step' toward return

Sidney Crosby is one final step away from returning to the NHL.

The Pittsburgh Penguins captain shed the white no-contact helmet he has worn for nearly a month and was a full participant in a morning skate Thursday after being cleared to absorb hits in practice for the first time since sustaining a concussion in January.

Crosby still must show he can handle contact with no concussion-related problems before he can play in games but, after being symptom free for weeks, he admittedly is "excited" to be closer to returning.

"It's a good step in the right direction," said Crosby, sweat still pouring off his face following the half-hour practice. "It's a big step ... we'll see how things go."

The Nova Scotia native didn't throw any checks or accept any as the Penguins mostly skated and went through shooting drills in advance of Thursday's game against the Washington Capitals. Still, Crosby said he won't be reluctant to instigate contact when he does practice.

GENE J. PUSKAR/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Crosby

Penguins coach Dan Bylsma said there is no firm timetable for Crosby's return to games. Neither Bylsma nor Crosby dropped any hints whether it might be mere days or a few weeks.

"But I don't think it's hard to be patient at this point," said the 24-year-old Crosby. "I'm getting closer and I want to make sure I respond well in the next however long it is."

Crosby must show he can handle any and all contact without a recurrence of any of his previously suffered symptoms, such as headaches, dizziness, an inability to concentrate, sensitivity to loud noises or bright lights.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Practice shortage

Sidney Crosby can now take part in every phase of practice, but the Penguins aren't practising much.

- They're beginning the season by playing six games in 10 days and eight in 13 days.
- Coach Dan Bylsma might have to create some contact-heavy drills especially for Crosby, who said no drill can replicate what occurs in a game.

At this point, it's all about 2012

With playoff hopes gone, Argos are using last games of season to lay foundation for Grey Cup bid next year

PAUL CHIASSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Steven Jyles fires a pass as he is rushed by Alouettes defensive end John Bowman on Monday.

It's not where Jim Barker wanted his team to be but the Toronto coach is trying to make the best of his predicament.

Any playoff hopes the Argonauts (3-11) had are gone. So Barker and his coaching staff will be thinking about next season when they host the Calgary Stampeders (8-6) in Friday's CFL game at Rogers Centre.

"This year ties into next year," Barker said Thursday. "We have four games left, three of them at home.

"We get a chance to develop a winning attitude that we haven't been able to get this year. We need to learn how to win again."

Toronto hosts next year's 100th Grey Cup game. The road to playing in the CFL championship starts now for the Argonauts.

"There is a tremendous amount of pressure on this club to be in that game," said Barker, who was the CFL coach of the year last season after guiding the Argos to a 9-9 record.

"We are looking at ... we have four weeks of training camp that the other teams don't have going into our organization's most important year. That's how we are approaching it. We are going to look at some different schemes. We are going to be able to get some things on film other teams can't and do things like that. We are looking at this as a launch into next year."

With nothing to lose, the Argos are free to experiment with players and plays.

"We can play loose," said Barker. "We can do things.

"As coach, we can try things maybe we wouldn't try if we were in a situation where we were playing for a playoff spot. That's the advantage."

It's exactly that sort of attitude that Calgary receiver Landan Talley said his team must prepare for as the Stampeders get ready to face the Argos and the 4-10 Saskatchewan Roughriders next week.

"These are teams that we should beat, but they are the most dangerous games we have this year," said Talley. "These two teams are playing with nothing to lose.

"When you've got somebody playing with nothing to lose they're mad dogs. They're coming at you. These are going to be two very important games to us when it comes to continuing on our path."

The Stampeders have a playoff spot wrapped up but are battling the B.C. Lions and Edmonton Eskimos for first place in the CFL West and a home playoff game. All three teams begin the weekend with 16 points.

The Stamps are coming off a last-play 33-31 loss to the Lions last week that knocked them out of first place. If the playoffs started today, Calgary would be third after losing the season series against both B.C. and Edmonton.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Newest Argo

One player who won't be in the lineup this week is veteran receiver Maurice Mann, who the Argos obtained in a trade Wednesday from the Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

- Coach Jim Barker said with the Argos having a short week, Mann hasn't had enough practice time.
- To make room for Mann the Argos released receiver Prechae Rodriguez, a former CFL rookie of the year.

Calvillo's record legit in its own right

CFL EXTRA POINTS

DAN TOTH
TORONTO@METRONEWS.CA

PAUL CHIASSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Alouettes quarterback Anthony Calvillo.

Anthony Calvillo's CFL record for all-time passing yards stands on its own merit, without being tagged the "pro football" record too.

The CFL made quite a fuss on Thanksgiving Day when the Montreal Alouettes QB surpassed Damon Allen to become the league's new king of the passing game, then the league went out of its way to pile Calvillo's numbers on top of NFL passing records to emphasize the point. It's unnecessary and is an insult to players on both sides of the border.

With a 50-yard pass to Jamel Richardson, Calvillo eclipsed Allen's 72,381 career passing yards, opening the floodgates of accolades from the likes of former NFL stars Dan Marino and Brett Favre. What does it matter? Calvillo's numbers are worthy of praise without the recognition from the NFL and comparing the numbers from different leagues is unwarranted.

"I never looked at the numbers the NFL guys accomplished because I thought in the CFL, we have our own league with our own records," Calvillo said. "But that was special to me."

Special maybe, but not necessary.

Riders limp into the sunset: Has a CFL team ever fallen as fast and as far as the 2011 Saskatchewan Roughriders? Almost guaranteed to miss the playoffs, the Riders appeared in three of the last four Grey Cup games and were picked in this column to finish first in the West. Yet the Riders' offence under QBs Darian Durant and Ryan Dinwiddie is so inept, longstanding records for futility are starting to fall.

The Riders haven't scored an offensive touchdown in more than three games — 14 quarters, in fact, the longest Saskatchewan scoring drought since 1979 when the team won just two games. Their nine points scored in the last three games is the worst string of futility in Riders history.

Hard to revel in Argos' misfortune: Only in the CFL do fans and media pull for sad-sack teams because it's "good for the league." That's exactly what's happening with the CFL-worst Toronto Argonauts, bottom feeders at 3-11 and eliminated from the playoffs, even though most folks outside the GTA love to hate all things Double Blue. The Argos' success is essential to the league's survival and a key ingredient in maintaining its TV contract.

SASKATCHEWAN

Grey Cup headed for Prairies

The Grey Cup is returning to Saskatchewan for what is being billed as an unforgettable party on the Prairies.

CFL commissioner Mark Cohon was in "the heart of the CFL" Thursday to announce that the Saskatchewan Roughriders will host the 2013 Grey Cup. The game is set for Nov. 24th, 2013.

Tim Connolly still a week or two away from return

Tim Connolly has missed a season and most of a playoff with concussion symptoms, suffered cracked vertebrae and broken ribs, so he knows a thing or two about revealing specifics about injuries.

That's why when it came to discussing his latest injury, and the fact it will keep him shelved longer than originally expected, Connolly could only talk in relative terms.

"I don't want to get too specific because when you get back, someone might target you in that area (of the injury)," Connolly said as he hinted that his timetable is no longer day-to-day, but somewhere in the week-to-two-week period.

The downgrade was the first time the centre's status had turned to the worse since he returned to practice mode last week.

Even that timetable put Connolly in a difficult position: "I don't know if it's day-to-day … maybe longer. But I can't speculate on that, whether it's one to two weeks, I can't tell you," said Connolly, who is nursing a suspected shoulder injury.

As much as any player in the NHL, Connolly has had to live with injuries and speculation. Ever since he entered the NHL as the fifth overall pick (Islanders) in 1999, his career has in part been defined by lengthy injury layoffs.

Since the 2005-06 season, Connolly has missed 190 games due to injury, although he's been relatively healthy the past two years, playing in 141 of 164 games. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

NOT SEEING THE RESULTS YOU WANT FROM YOUR ANTIDEPRESSANT?
Please consider our depression research study.

Our office is conducting a research study to evaluate whether adding an investigational medication to an approved antidepressant therapy might give relief from the symptoms of major depressive disorder (MDD) when added to a current medication.

You may be able to take part in this study if you:
- Are 18 - 65 years old,
- Have been diagnosed with Major Depressive Disorder (MDD),
- Have been experiencing symptoms of depression for at least the past 2 months,
- Have been taking at least one antidepressant medication as prescribed but it is not helping you enough.

Additional study criteria will be assessed by the study doctor.

The study lasts 15 to 22 weeks. Participants will receive either the investigational medication or a placebo (an inactive substance).

All study-related medications, office visits and examinations will be provided to you at no cost. 647-338-0369

Happy Birthday Babe!!
Hope you have a wonderful day. I love you xoxo. N.G.

Tink, It has taken a lifetime of mistakes until we finally met. You are the woman of my dreams, my rock, my best friend. Never doubt my commitment to you, our family and new lifelong commitment. We are strong together. Thank you for having me. Xo~ REX

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Confront whatever it is you fear most and find ways to overcome it.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Tempers could be on the short side over the next 24 hours, especially if people keep changing their plans.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Don't waste your energy on someone who seems determined to give you a hard time. Let him or her go.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Just because you see things clearly does not mean others do. There will be times today when it seems as if the whole world is blind. Enlighten it.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Not everything will go your way today but overall the forecast is good, so ignore the little negative things.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 Even if you are the rare Virgo who likes surprises, what happens today won't meet your approval.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 It's good that you're the forgiving sort because someone will try your patience today. Use humour to deal.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 There will be a string of disruptions today but you won't be as inconvenienced as some people.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Keep your schedule flexible as unexpected developments will throw everything off course.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You will discover something new about a friend today. It may shock you but you will also be impressed.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Expect a few surprises today. If your keep your wits about you, they'll be turned in your favour.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. Hold on to your purse because cash has a way of slipping through your fingers. SALLY BROMPTON
